Reach the Nuclear Industry.

2026 Edition

NukeWorker.com is the largest online community in the nuclear industry — the people who build, run, refuel, and staff the world's reactors, and the companies that hire them.

Serving the nuclear community since 1999.

THE OPPORTUNITY

One audience. The entire nuclear industry.

Niche wins. A single banner, job posting, or email on NukeWorker reaches decision-makers and skilled workers across the whole fleet — not a spray of impressions to people who will never touch a reactor.

 A community that comes back — every day

NukeWorker isn't just a job board people visit when they need work. Its forum (14,533 active members across 22,451 topics), quizzes, study guides, photo gallery, facility data, and outage schedules keep the industry coming back daily — which means your message gets seen again and again.

 Why advertisers and recruiters choose NukeWorker

A concentrated audience
RP/RCT techs, operators, engineers, health physics, security, outage travelers — and the firms that staff them.

25+ years of trust
The industry's original job board and community, online continuously since 1999.

A fraction of the cost
One nuclear-market billboard runs $20K–$100K/mo and reaches one plant. We reach the whole industry.

More than a job board
Forums, quizzes, study guides, the photo gallery, facility data, and outage schedules keep people coming back daily.

 Ways to reach them

PRODUCT	BEST FOR	STARTING AT
Job Postings & Resume Access	Hiring nuclear talent	$279

OUR AUDIENCE

Who’s in the database

Live numbers, straight from NukeWorker.com — not a brochure estimate. Right now 30,744 candidates are registered, 29,529 resumes are active, and 1,061 jobs are open — with 115,957 applications processed to date.

 Top disciplines in the resume database

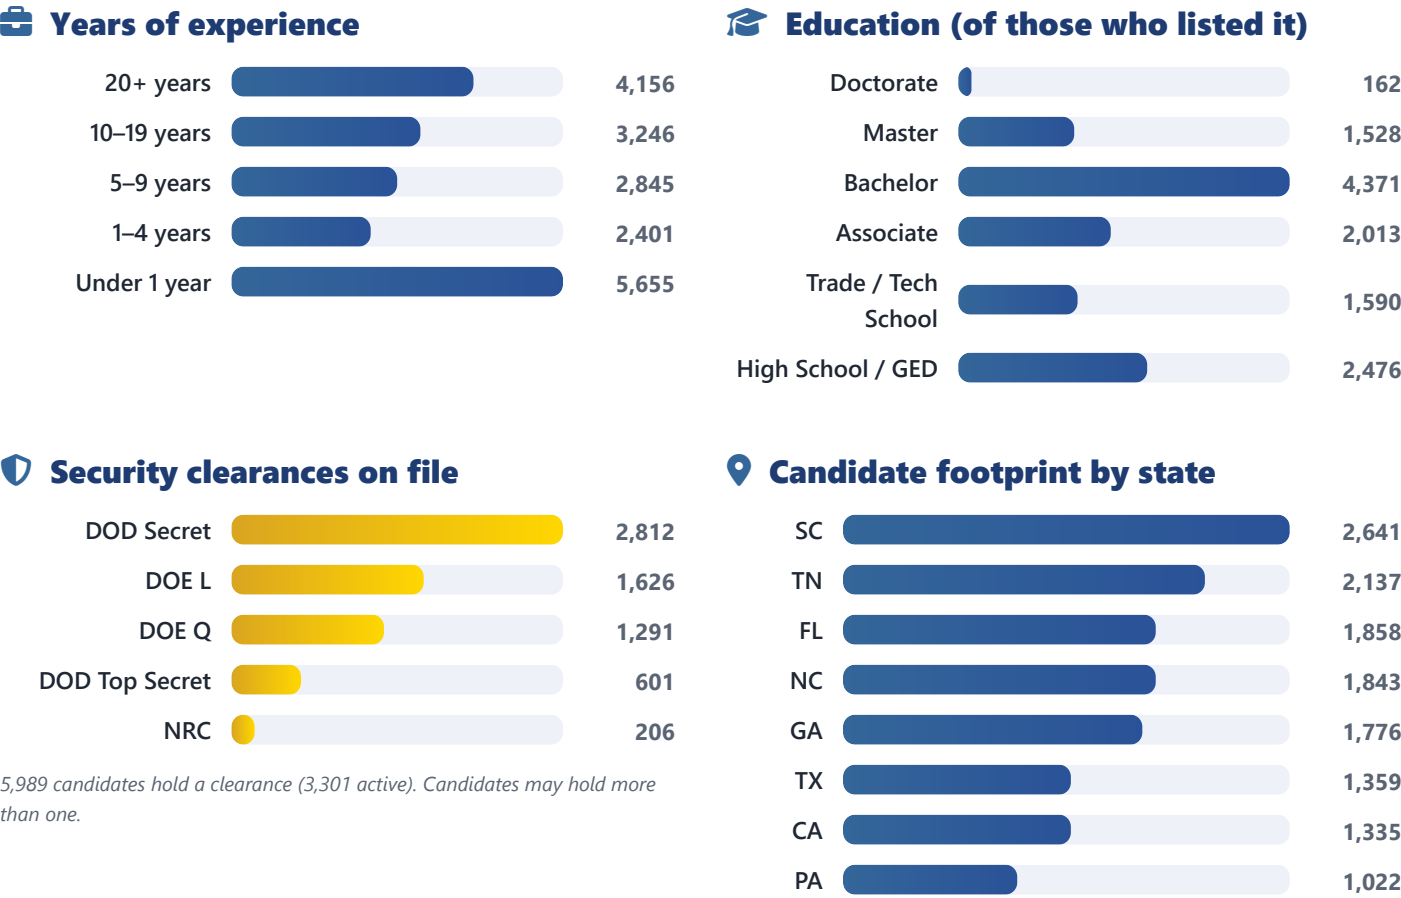

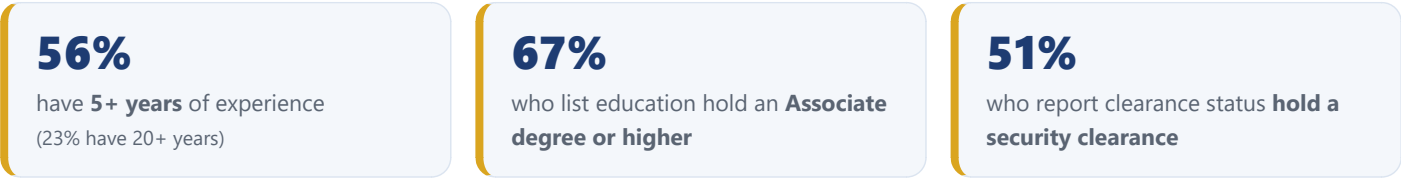

Candidates commonly list more than one discipline. Radiation Protection combines RP Technician, RCT, and Health Physicist — the same craft under different plant names.

OUR AUDIENCE

Experienced, credentialed, cleared

NukeWorker candidates are career nuclear professionals — not a general job-seeker pool.

5,989 candidates hold a clearance (3,301 active). Candidates may hold more than one.

Candidates in 63 states & provinces. Many are travelers who work outages nationwide.

WHY THEY STAY

Far more than a job board

NukeWorker gives the nuclear community plenty of reasons to visit that have nothing to do with looking for work — free tools they use daily. That engagement is what puts your brand, banner, or posting in front of them again and again.

Discussion Forum

The industry's busiest nuclear community — 168,018 messages across 22,451 topics.

Photo Gallery

Pictures of nuclear facilities worldwide — 7,915 photos, 12,971,374 views.

Facility Database

Every U.S. nuclear plant — location, units, status, news, ratings, and photos in one place.

Company Ratings & Reviews

Honest, worker-submitted reviews of nuclear employers and staffing firms.

Reactor Status & Outage Maps

See at a glance which U.S. reactors are online and which are in an outage.

Pay Scale Data

Real, worker-reported nuclear pay observations by craft and discipline.

Per Diem & Travel Rates

GSA and DoD per-diem rates — essential for the outage travelers who work the fleet.

Nuclear News

Industry and per-facility news, plus automated outage-status updates.

33,356 NukeWorker pages are indexed by Google — a 25-year nuclear knowledge base built by the industry itself. That depth is why nuclear professionals keep landing on NukeWorker, day after day, whether or not they're job hunting.

What hiring managers say

Real employers, real results — why they post on NukeWorker instead of the general boards.

"We have been pleasantly surprised by the breadth and depth of the candidates we've found on NukeWorker. We can search across several nuclear disciplines using a combination of keywords and pre-determined criteria, and NukeWorker's resume search helps us zero in on the top talent with the qualifications we're looking for — in a matter of minutes."

Ed Carl · Owner, Carl's Services, Inc.

"Running expensive ads on other sites generated too many applications from unqualified candidates. We usually have to promptly remove our job postings from NukeWorker due to the overwhelming response from qualified candidates."

K2 Environmental · Nuclear staffing & services

ON VOLUME

"We posted an RP Tech vacancy and got over 40 applicants, viewed more than 800 times, in just a few days."

NukeWorker.com Media Kit 2026

ON SENIOR TALENT

"We found senior workers who wouldn't be caught dead on other job sites."

ON RESUME QUALITY

"We dislike recycled resumes — NukeWorker has the only fresh nuclear resume database out there."

ABOUT

Built by nuclear, for nuclear

NukeWorker.com began in 1999 as a single page of nuclear links and grew into the industry's leading job board and community. Founder Michael D. Rennhack started his nuclear career as a decontamination technician and has held radiological engineering, radiological management, and project management roles at dozens of nuclear facilities. That firsthand experience is why NukeWorker speaks the industry's language — and why nuclear professionals trust it.

Today NukeWorker is far more than a job board: forums for professional networking, practice quizzes and study guides, a photo gallery covering nuclear facilities worldwide, a facility information database, and the industry's most complete outage schedules. Those "sticky" features are why the community comes back day after day — and why your message gets seen.

Let's get you in front of the industry.

Tell us who you're trying to reach and your budget — we'll recommend the best fit.
